

SOME USEFUL WEBSITES

There are many websites providing information about Autistic Spectrum Disorder. To help you get started some have been listed below. Most of these provide links to other sites.

Judging the validity and usefulness that is presented on the internet can be difficult. Any questions that you may have about material on a site can be directed to a professional in this area of work. The websites below are all from well respected national and local organisations: we cannot, however, take responsibility for their content.

The National Autistic Society

www.autism.org.uk

The Scottish Society for Autism

www.autism-in-scotland.org.uk

NHS website

www.nhs.uk

CHIP+

www.chipplus.org.uk

HCCF – the voice of users and carers in the Highlands

www.hccf.org.uk

The Highland Council – follow the link to Autistic Spectrum Disorders

www.highland.gov.uk